fix test to other per ons whose names appear in the report, smountly gin the whole, between the 18th October, 1853 and the 55 July, 1854, inclusive, 50 17.732 chares. Besides which there are outstanding certificates in the name of R. & G. L. Schuyler, covering 1,648 shares, and in the name of R. Schell & Co., 186 shares. The stock which these last certificates originally represented has been transferred by R. & G. L. Schuyler and Schell & Co., without surrencering the original certificates, and the persons holting those certificates have no such stock to their credit on the books of the company. Of the fraudulent stock, 9,283 shares now stand upon the books of the company, in the names of parties to whom they were transferred and issued by R. & G. L. Schuyler, 672 of the IC48 shares, were is need after they had overdrawn their account, which first occurred vetoher 18, 1853. And those in the name of R. Schell & Co., 160 shares were all for spurious stock. Much time has been consumed in this investigation, but it sould not have been done in as harter period. The directors believe that the results are securately ascertained, and that the report presents the facts as they now wrist.

An exceedingly important question arises from these stock. Much time has been consumed in this investigation, but it could not have been done in a sh river period. The directors believe that the results are securately ascertained, and that the report presents the facts as they now evist.

An exceedingly important question arises from these facts, are the holders of these false certificates of shares to be regarded and treated as ateckholders of the company. Upon this subject and the other questions connec ed with it, the board submits herewith the ppinion of their counsel. They say that no power short of the Legislature of the state of Connecticut, with the assent of the stechholders, can increase the capital stock. And that the fraudulent acts of an officer, so greatly transcending any power conferred upon him, or which the directors or the company could confer upon him, do not bind or im bleate the company in any way.

With these facts and of interesting and important, and inverted acts and of lines before them, the directors have called a special meeting of the stockholders, at the earliest nement the by laws would allow, to sak their asvice and assistance.

The questions arising are so interesting and important, and inverte so great an amount of pecuniary interests, that the directors, whatever may be their insividual view as to the daties and obligations of the company, decline to make any decision or to express any opinion in regard to them; for indopenter of any do not of their power in the premisen, and of any vall ity to be accorded to their determination, whatever they may believe justice and equity to require, they feel themselves precluded by the opinion already referred to, from taking any direct action upon tole subject, and they any bulleve furties and equity to require, they feel themselves precluded to their determination, whatever they may believe justice and equity to require, they feel themselves precluded to their determination, whatever they may be any or the company of the company and the theory of the company of the company of the company the distinct of which belongs to the stockholders col-lectively.

The unfortunate defection of Mr. Schuvler induced the Board to institute an immediate and careful examination into the securiary affairs of the company. With the assistance of a shifful bookheeper, the accounts of the treasurer have been carefully examined and found to be cerrect, and property vouched for. The bond account has also been examined, and it is found that for all the bands issued by the company, the company has re-ceived the proper consideration in money, except for a man assemul, which were hypothesised as esecutive, which are a set given to vise funds to meet either seeds, which are a well he pad at maturity and the tends returned, and with a set of the pad at maturity and the tends returned as a set of the pad at the pad at therity of the principal limitelf, and more especially when in thus transcending the authority of the principal, it is at the same time illegal and a sainst the policy of the law.

IV. It follows from these views that the Board of Disectors has no more authority be recognize the holders of these illegal certificates as creditors of the company for the amount advanced upon them, than it has to admit them to the rights of steckholders.

The direc ors of a corporation have no power to appropriate its funds, or ogive an obligation to pay an illegal claim which is made against it. This was jettled by the Court of appeals in the case of Habitead vs. The Mayor of New York, (8 Comst. R., 230) where the corporation of this city gave its orafix to the Corporation Counsel to pay he created detending a said against some of the Alearmen who had done an act is which the city was no interested, in violation of law; the celesce having been assumed by a recolution of her Common Coanell. It was held that the drafts were void, even in the hands of a third party. If, therefore, the directors should apply the funds of the company to pay these advances without the crasest of the lawful stockholders, they would be personally liable for misaproprisating the company's property, and if they should give the company's bonds for the amount they would be void and no recovery could be had upon them.

V. Ibat 't all the holders of the lawful stock should corsent, the Board of Directors might recognize the holders of the liet al shares as creditors for the sums as ancen upon them, and might pay or give the bonds of the company for the amount, so, if a like cousent was given, they might be recognized as stockholders; but in order to do this an act of the Legislature of Connecticut would be necessary, to increase the capital, so as to incore the original stock, so as to bring it, after additing the spurious shares, within the practiced limit of three millions. In no other way can this be lawfully done.
